CURRENT POSITIONS

- Professor, Department of Economics, University of New Mexico (UNM). (at UNM since 1987 - Present)
- Sr. Research Fellow, the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation (RWJF) Center for Health Policy at the University of New Mexico. (2010 - Present)
- Sr. Research Associate, Center for Economic Research, University of Rochester. (1999 - Present)
- Affiliate Faculty, Feminist Research Institute, University of New Mexico. (2016 – Present)
- Founding Director, Nepal Study Center, University of New Mexico. (2005 - Present)
<http://nepalstudycenter.unm.edu/index.htm>

EDUCATION

- Ph.D., Economics, University of Colorado, Boulder Time Series Models and Structural Econometric Model Specification; Advisor Professor Robert F. McNown, (August 1986)
- M.A., Economics, University of Colorado, Boulder, Econometrics and Math. Economics, (August 1985)
- M. Sc., Statistics and Econometrics, Tribhuvan University, Kirtipur, Kathmandu, Nepal, (January 1979)
- B.S., Statistics, Mathematics, and Economics, Trichandra College, Kathmandu, Nepal, (July 1976)

EMPLOYMENT HISTORY

- Graduate Director, Department of Economics, UNM. (January 2017 – August 2018)
- Professor, Department of Economics, UNM. (July 1999- Present)
- Associate Professor, Department of Economics, UNM. (June 1993 - July 1999)
- Assistant Professor, Department of Economics, UNM. (August 1987 - June 1993)
- Visiting Faculty, Department of Economics, University of Colorado (CU), Boulder. (Fall 1986 - 1987)
- Research Associate, Adjunct, Center for Economic Analysis, CU, Boulder. (Fall 1986 - Spring 1987)
- Graduate Instructor, Department of Economics, CU, Boulder. (Fall 1984 - Summer 1986)
- Lecturer, Department of Statistics (Statistics Instruction Committee), Tribhuvan University, Kirtipur, Kathmandu, Nepal. (August 197- July 1982)

OTHER EMPLOYMENT HISTORY

- Research Assistant, International Economic Studies Center, University of Colorado, Boulder. (Fall 1982 - Spring 1984)
 - Teaching Assistant, Department of Economics, University of Colorado, Boulder. (Spring 1984)
 - Researcher, Public Utilities Commission, Dept. of Regulatory Agencies, Denver, Colorado (July 1985 - July 1986)
 - Research Assistant, Time Series Forecasting, Boulder, Colorado. (Summer 1984)
 - Summer Intern, Institute of International Education (IIE), State Planning and Budgeting, Denver, Colorado. (Summer 1983)
 - Statistician and Research Officer, Development Research and Communications Group (DRCG), Lazimpat, Kathmandu, Nepal. (1981)

HONORS AND RECOGNITIONS

Employment-related and/or Professional Recognition and Awards

- 2023 UNM Globally-Engaged Research Award (University-wide) (2023)
- STAR Fellow on STAR Scholars Network (2019)
- 10th Annual Faculty of Color Award, University of New Mexico. (2016)
- Faculty Mentor Award, Office of Graduate Studies, UNM. (May 2013)
- The Robert Wood Johnson Center for Health Policy Mentoring Award. (May 2013)
- Recognized with an award by the Non-Resident Nepali Association (NRNA) at its Houston Regional Conference in 2010 for outstanding contribution to Nepal in areas of educational endeavor and public policy debates and deliberations. (2010)
- Received 4 Certificates of Appreciation from ROP, UNM for mentoring minority students during the summers. (1995, 1998, 1999/2000)

Student Medals, Awards, & Fellowships

- Distinction, Ph.D. comprehensive examination, University of Colorado, Boulder. (February 1985)
- Graduate Student Teaching Award Nominee, Econ. Department, U. of Colorado, Boulder. (Feb. 1985)
- Summer Internship, University of Colorado, Institute of International Education (IIE), Worked at the Office of Budget and Revenue Department, State Capitol, Denver. (1983)
- Recipient of Meritorious Student Fellowships, twice during the graduate studies, Department of Statistics, Tribhuvan University, Kathmandu, Nepal. (1976 & 1979)
- Recipient of Meritorious Gold Medal (Mahendra Bidya Bhushan), first in the class of 1979 Statistics Department, Master's examination, Tribhuvan University, Kirtipur, Kathmandu, Nepal. (1979)
- Recipient of Meritorious Medal (Chancellor Padak (Medal)), first in the class of 1979 (university-wide across all disciplines throughout the country), Tribhuvan University, Kirtipur, Kathmandu, Nepal. (1979)

RESEARCH, TEACHING AND GLOBAL OUTREACH SUMMARIES

Research Summary (Past, Present, and Future)

- Macro uncertainty and output, common movements and dynamic transmission of shocks across economies.
- Gender and or ethnic discrimination; environmental justice (environmental Kuznets curve hypothesis), migration movements; armed conflict and inequality.
- Non-market valuation tools and its applications to environmental amenities, health, and climate change and adaptations.
- A Random Utility Model approach to modeling movements of endangered species and habitat mapping.
- Social capital, trust and reciprocity, resiliency, food security, adaptation, and natural disaster.
- Gender empowerment, health and hygiene (mental health and social media, menstrual hygiene, HPV awareness, cancer and quality of life)
- Urban systems and resiliency (pollution –water, air and soil; waste management, drinking water, public health, green space)
- Natural disaster and pandemic and the socio-economic impact (damage and loss) and the adaptation measures (early warning system, private adaptation, building codes/constructions, and training).
- Under exploration: Complexity economics, social network, adaptive systems, scale, self-organization, and criticality.
- Tools: Stata, R, GIS, GAUSS; state-of-the-art metrics to deal with various data generating processes – count, censored, limited and qualitative, dynamic, cross-sectional, panel; nonlinear; spatial econometrics, mle/GMM, Bayesian metrics (INLA-Integrated Nested Laplace Approximation, choice modeling,

SEM/GSEM, measurement error models. Primary surveys, secondary surveys, censuses, and time series and cross-sectional data frames.

Teaching Summary

- Statistics, Econometrics at graduate and undergraduate levels, Time Series Analysis, and Development Analytics 1) micro-econometrics –inequality, hotspot, impact evaluation, small-area estimates and 2) macro dynamics, uncertainties and shocks in a panel and/or time series VAR setting)
- Developed problem-based learning curriculum (Econ 369*) to enhance experiential learning with hands-on community-engaged research for undergraduates. This learning modality includes: the use of graduate mentors in the classroom setting, analysis of real world data from the field, coming up with the implementable solutions, and using study abroad program to implement the solutions on the ground (e.g., student-led citizen science concept to collect water quality data in Nepal; installation of pollution monitoring devices to collect real time data; and community engagement and interactive workshops.

Global Outreach

- Establishment of the knowledge platforms like the Nepal Study Center at UNM (2005) and its Himalayan Policy Research Consortium to promote global research and outreach connectivity through various activities (annual conferences –since 2005, summer graduate research seminar, workshops, 10+ field research in Nepal)
- Exchanges and visits of high ranking officials between UNM and Kathmandu University and ICIMOD.
- MOU between UNM and institutions in the Himalayan region making UNM an associate member of the ICIMOD’s Himalayan University Consortium (HUC) initiative.
- Himalayan Study Abroad Program.

RESEARCH AND TEACHING STATEMENTS

CURRENT RESEARCH AND TEACHING INTEREST AND ACTIVITIES

RESEARCH PROGRAM

My research interest and publication accomplishment lie in the intersection of environment, health & sustainable development, increasingly driven by real world problems that require out-side-the-box thinking that leads to rigorous understanding and testing of the hypotheses using a wide range of data gathering apparatus (primary field surveys, secondary surveys, or even data gathered through our own monitoring and tracking e-portals: <https://dempnsc.unm.edu/>) . Importantly, I challenge my students to use research results to offer implementable solutions and interventions, interventions that could be technological, policy prescriptive, regulatory, or educational. That is, my message to students: Beyond publications, use research to make a difference. For some examples of past and current research projects at the Nepal Study Center: <http://nepalstudycenter.unm.edu/ResearchCapacity.htm>

Research Themes

1. Empirical Measurements & Preference Demand Estimation: My research focuses on empirical methodologies to estimate stated (and revealed) preference demand (Choice Experiment and Contingent Valuation) under varying conditions such as: uncertainty, real versus hypothetical scenarios, information content, statistical distributions, selection bias, spatial heterogeneity and endogeneity. Examples of application include: river conservation, endangered species, health (cancer screening), climate change, and quality of life assessment, HPV vaccination awareness among many others.

2. Urban Resiliency: Health, Environment & Bio-diversity and the Use of e-portals for research and information dissemination: Building on my years of research on non-market valuation in environmental economics (CVM, Choice Experiments), my research in recent years has emphasized the study of issues in WASH (water, sanitation, and hygiene), knowledge attitude and behavior (KAB), citizen science, urban biodiversity and the links between health and environment in urban Nepal, and to come up with the implementable solutions.

3. Gender Empowerment Research: My research tries to focus on those who are underprivileged and vulnerable. Using both secondary and primary field data, my work has explored: 1) Women's habits and behavior: antenatal visit, smoking habits, and breast feeding practices. 2) Women's endurances: domestic violence, labor force discrimination, mental burden caused by chronic illness like cancer, indoor pollution, & water contaminants (arsenic). 3) Women's capacity: micro finance entrepreneurship, resiliency in the face of shocks, being a frontline educator at home, & social-capital-building agent of change.

4. Sustainable Development (SD), Resiliency, and Coping Mechanism: The Himalayan geographic ruggedness (bur associated risk, both manmade and natural), rich ecology, abundant natural resources (community forest and rivers/water) and immense cultural diversity have shaped my research program (e.g., multidimensional poverty index, food security, structural versus non-structural social capital, gender & climate adaptation strategies and resiliency amidst natural disasters, use of technology to fight poverty, health inequality, and knowledge gap).

5. Citizen Science for Research, Policy, and Awareness: Also termed as research-to-action, I have used my doctoral research and data gathering efforts in the undergraduate classroom teaching to devise various solution-oriented action research projects, including setting up of various data gathering tools and apparatus in a field setting in Nepal (water quality, ground water level etc.). An example of a student-managed real-time air pollution tracking portal: <https://dempnsc.unm.edu/> This environmental dashboard disseminates information in public, and allows UNM students to work on research projects.

Research to Action

Data Driven Action Projects for Research, Policy and Awareness: For example, our NSC Sustainable Development Action Lab group is working to develop an e-portal dashboard to display data, collected from the citizen science sensors and surveys in Nepal –DEMP project, that will be showcased dynamically on the website, both spatially and temporally (e.g., air pollution, waste, public health illness pattern, and water quality) –real time as well as historical. Using the data from the NASA's global model, for example, and combining them with our ground level DEMF air pollution data, we hope to predict pollution levels at a finer and wider scale across the urban area. Finally and importantly, to translate research into action, posters, neighborhood boards and educational games and workshops are also being planned as pilot projects to assess the impact on personal health, habit, and the outcomes.

Methods and Approaches

State of the art micro-econometrics, time series analysis, GIS & spatio-temporal analysis, field surveys, non-linear models, Bayesian methods, impact evaluation, modeling uncertainties and Structural Econometric Modeling (SEM), non-market valuation tools (CVM and choice experiment) etc.

Current and Select Recent Past Research Projects

- Health: HPV Awareness; m-Health among the adolescent youths; Quality of life among the cancer patients; Menstruation hygiene & cultural impediments; Impact assessment of health training and women's leadership program; Detecting risk factor in the prevalence of metabolic disorders in Rohini Municipality community; mapping COPD incidents in urban Siddharthanagar; Domestic violence and its health impact. Use of App to impact health behavior and awareness (planned).
- Environment: Waste management and urban resiliency; Air pollution and its health impact; Water quality, health impact and WTP for river restoration; Groundwater arsenic and its health impact on women; Urban forests and wildlife habitat and community preferences.
- Sustainable Development: Role of agronomical knowledge in crop diversification and adoption of hybrid rice seeds; Natural disaster, social capital, and coping strategies.
- STEAM: Danda Ecological Monitoring Program (DEMP), data science, citizen science initiative, and impact of hands-on citizen science projects on science curriculum, attitude, policy, and awareness. [A = the Arts]
- Citizen Science: Environmental Data Tracking & Monitoring for Research, Education, and Policy Prescriptions: Setting ground sensors and tools to gather data, ground water level, Danda River water levels, water quality along different points, and tracking real-time urban air pollution status <https://dempnsc.unm.edu/>

TEACHING INNOVATIONS

I teach econometric sequence, time series analysis, and the sustainable development analytics courses. I bring into my classroom cutting edge research analytical methods and encourage students to think about the real-world empirical research questions in an interdisciplinary manner. In my development analytics course, for example, students write mini research projects (theoretical concept and empirical models) by studying the real-world scenarios – e.g., Annapurna Conservation Area's multidimensional development activities (e.g., eco-tourism, human-wildlife conflict, livelihood, and conservation), urban pollution and health hazard, interface between science and public policy. Pushing this “problem-driven research” concept further, I have developed a Sustainable Development Action Lab (SDAL), where we try to develop solutions that can be implemented on the ground (e.g., rain-indexed insurance mechanism, awareness interventions in sanitation, waste management and recycling, HPV awareness strategies, citizen science toolkits just to name a few.) I have adopted a new motto to drive my interest: problem driven research, and research driven solutions.

To promote graduate-undergraduate research mentorship and experiential learning, I offer a STEAM focused interdisciplinary course –where A stands for the Arts. To do so, I have developed a bridge undergraduate course (Econ 369*: Problem-based Learning Using Data Analytics), where a) undergraduate students analyze the real world data from the field mostly generated from doctoral field research (e.g., air quality, water quality, river dynamics, weather and health outcome), b) come up with solutions (e.g., monitoring sensors, protocols and awareness strategies), and c) go on the Himalayan Study Abroad Program to implement the projects on the field. GLOBAL INITIATIVE

NEPAL STUDY CENTER

Dr. Bohara was one of the first faculty participants at UNM to get involved in the international initiative of the University (Provost Brian Foster's call). In response to that call, he collaborated with various scholars (UNM and elsewhere) to establish a research center at UNM in 2005 –Nepal Study Center. It has gone global with various initiatives –research and graduate recruitment; annual conferences, international partnerships, and electronic portal. The latest initiative is to develop citizen science initiative in Siddharthanagar to promote global learning, research, public policy and awareness. Details are on the website: <http://nepalstudycenter.unm.edu/objectives.htm>

Some Notable Accomplishments

- Sustainable Development Action Lab: research analysis the classroom, and developing solutions for implementation on the ground (Citizen Science Initiative: tracking air pollution, water quality, river depth, weather, groundwater level etc.).
 - <http://nepalstudycenter.unm.edu/SustainableResearchLab/StudyAbroad.html>
- Development of an e-portal/dashboard to share citizen science sensor data for research, teaching, policy, and public awareness (in progress).
- Development of a STEM-based problem-based learning class [ECON 369].

- Formation of an interdisciplinary UNM Himalayan Climate Change Impact Initiative (Summer 2013) and NSF-funded travel trip (1915) to Nepal to help start an international research hub in Siddharthanagar, Nepal.
- Launched an initiative to start a peer-reviewed e-journal Development Journal of the South (Summer 2014) (Role: Chief Editor in collaboration with several scholars from various universities).
- NSC-sponsored HPRC Annual conferences at the University of Wisconsin's South Asia venue; 8th annual conference concluded in 2013.
http://nepalstudycenter.unm.edu/SeminarsWorkshopsConferences/HPRC_Conferences/HPRC_ConferencesMainHomePage.html
- Notable research output <http://nepalstudycenter.unm.edu/ResearchCapacity.htm>
- High level visits from both sides –UNM, Kathmandu University, and ICIMOD (International Center for Integrated Mountain Development).
- NSC coordinated a visit to Nepal led by the UNM Provost to sign the two MOUs. (Kathmandu University and ICIMOD).
- UNM is an Associate member of the 8-country Himalayan University Consortium (HUC).
- UNM's School of Medicine has a vibrant interactive program with the Kathmandu University's medical school (global health teaching and research initiative).
- Himalayan Study Abroad Program:
<http://nepalstudycenter.unm.edu/SustainableResearchLab/StudyAbroad.html>
- NSC-UNM's branch office at Kathmandu University.

Sustainable Development Action Lab

The Sustainable Development Action Lab (SDAL) builds upon the field research track record of the Nepal Study Center (NSC), a South Asia focused research center at UNM, and its various doctoral research activities over the last several years. This is an interdisciplinary approach to research, learning and problem solving by bringing together the three disciplines: Natural Sciences, Social Sciences and Humanities. The lab trisects the whole learning process in three ways. First, using UNM's access to research platforms in Nepal –Lumbini Center for Sustainability, NSC's global research program gathers real world data (e.g., water and air quality data, geomatics maps of urban built-environment and ecosystems, household surveys, feasibility studies, health and sanitation, randomized control trial experiments). Second, an interdisciplinary graduate-undergraduate mentorship classroom lab at UNM (special topic course: Econ 369* Problem-based Learning using Data Analytics) analyzes the baseline data rigorously and tries to come up with practical solutions that are implementable on the ground in Nepal (e.g., long-term scientific data monitoring programs; sustainable technologies; evidence-based policies; educational and awareness platforms including riparian bio-gallery, visual arts, Apps & e-portals; citizen science program; urban eco-systems and conservation; urban wildlife refuge). Third, the Himalayan Study Abroad Program and its community engaged research component provide students an opportunity to travel to Nepal to implement some of their solutions. This STEM project-based integrative environment and linkages are strengthened every year as a cutting-edge learning platform for UNM and its Himalayan-based collaborators.

South-South Initiative

- Himalayan Research Paper Archive electronic portal to promote South-South interactions. A co-editorial board consists of scholars from the three continents –Asia, Africa, and the Americas. Bohara serves as an Editor. <http://nepalstudycenter.unm.edu/NSCWorkingPaperSeries.htm>
- The Seventh Annual Himalayan Policy Research Conference initiated a special session on South-South Development and Cooperation.
- In March 2012, Bohara was invited to e-coordinate and moderate a workshop organized by the ICIMOD. He also gave a keynote speech to the workshop participants via video-conferencing. Strengthening Research Capacity of the Hindu Kush Himalayan (HKH) universities and research institutions for promoting inclusive and innovative development in the HKH region. The workshop was sponsored by ICIMOD and IDRC and was attended by several well-known scholars from the region.
